

Good morning Sunshine

sunshinecoastdaily.com.au

YOUR EASY INDEX

My Business	starts 17
Classifieds	start 33
Crosswords	31, 32
Movies	31
Opinion	14, 15
HealthyLIFE	29
Television	30
Weather page	43

LOTTO RESULTS

Pools draw 1300

2, 3, 8, 10, 19, 22

Supp 4

Dividends: Div 1 -; Div 2 -; Div 3 $548.50; Div 4 $27.20; Div 5 $15.90

JOKE OF THE DAY

TWO blondes were driving to Disneyland . They were happily motoring down the highway when they saw the sign that said, "Disneyland left". They started crying and turned around and went home.

The joke of the day comes from D. Fish of Bli Bli.

The Joke of the Week published in Saturday's Sunshine Coast Daily, wins a Double Fast and Fun Pass entitling two people to unlimited rides all day at Aussie World . Send your jokes to: Joke of the Day, PO Box 56, Maroochydore, Q4558.

CONTACT US

NEWS

General news: 5430 8058
Email: editorial@scnews.com.au

ADVERTISING

Classifieds 1300 136 181
Online: localclassifieds.com.au
Display advertising 5430 1038
Property 5430 8035

HOME DELIVERIES 5479 1588

Published by Sunshine Coast Newspaper Co Pty Ltd (ABN 56009 795 859) of Newspaper Place, Maroochydore, Queensland 4558, an APN Australian Publishing publication. Printed by APN Print, 54 Pioneer Road, Yandina, Qld.

BROKEN: Stewart Hubbard's dad Andy Walters is upset by his son's assault.

Teen's arm smashed, dad angry

FROM PAGE 1

"MY friends told me I was dancing with these girls and then I was dragged out the front," Stewart said.

"Now I can't move my hand."

The ambulance was called at 3.14am on Saturday and arrived to collect Stewart within 15 minutes.

Stewart said he now believes a bouncer at Rolling Rock nightclub put him in an armlock and was taking him outside.

He said he had been told that the bouncer was pushed away as four other security staff pounced.

Once in Noosa Hospital, he learned his arm, between his shoulder and elbow, had been fractured.

"It was the first time I'd ever been to Noosa," he said.

"I wasn't really drunk but probably a little bit intoxicated - I remember that I couldn't afford to buy much.

"A guy even came up to one of my mates and gave him a business card - he said if we had any trouble to call him because he had seen the whole thing."

That business card has been passed on to police.

Stewart's father Andy Walters said he was disgusted with what his son had gone through.

"The force needed to break that part of his arm would be astronomical," he said.

"After tomorrow he will be given his pay and I'll have to help pay his rent."

Stewart will have surgery at the Nambour Fracture Clinic where his arm may need to be re-broken before it can begin to heal.

Doctors have told him he could be off work for up to nine months.

"I can barely get dressed," he said. "They didn't have to do what they did, they just took it too far."

Rolling Rock promotions manager Nathan Ramsay said he did not know about the incident because it was in the hands of the firm, Best Security.

He said security guards had a "strict no striking policy".

Being aggressive meant they were risking their job.

"Each one carries a notepad and every incident is written up," he said.

Best Security spokesman Alan Baxter said he knew of the incident but would not comment further.

"In relation to whether we know about it, we do know about the incident," he said.

"At this stage, I'm not going to comment on anything about the matter."

Athletics Australia happy to keep Jana

CHAMPION hurdler Jana Rawlinson has not fractured her relationship with Australia by considering running for Great Britain, Athletics Australia says.

England-based Rawlinson, a dual world 400m hurdles champion, reportedly discussed switching allegiance to Great Britain for the 2012 London Olympics, before ruling it out.

The matter further tests 27-year-old Rawlinson's already tetchy relationship with Australian officialdom, fellow athletes and fans.

AA's high performance manager Eric Hollingsworth attempted to quell the storm by saying there was never any danger of Rawlinson opting for Britain, scotching suggestions he talked Rawlinson out of switching allegiance to get a slice of greater financial support leading into the London Olympics.

"She's Australian and will be running for Australia," he said.

News Ltd reported Rawlinson had raised the prospect of running for Great Britain with London Olympics boss Sebastian Coe but subsequently told Hollingsworth she was sticking with Australia.

Hollingsworth said Rawlinson's relationship with AA would not be affected.

"There is no fracture in the relationship," he said.

"This is someone who spends an hour-and-a-half painting her nails with the Australian flag - does that strike you as someone who's going to leave Australia?"

Rawlinson lives in England with her British husband Chris and applied for a British passport, an act which Hollingsworth says set the story in motion.

"She's over there living in the UK and she inquired about a British passport in terms of ease of movement around Europe and the European Union and competition and all those kind of things."

- AAP

Whatever you want, get there quicker.

6.00% p.a.

TERM DEPOSIT

For 12 months. Interest paid at maturity. Available for new and renewing accounts.

No matter what you're saving for, we've got a great rate that will work hard for you on balances from $5,000 to less than $500,000. No wonder more Australians save with us than with any other bank.

Visit commbank.com.au/save or any branch today.

Determined to be different

Important information: Offer available in Queensland and Western Australia only. Interest rate current as at 06/06/10 but is subject to change. Terms and conditions issued by Commonwealth Bank of Australia ABN 48 123 123 124 available on request or via commbank.com.au. You should consider whether or not the product is appropriate for you. Bank fees and charges may apply. CBANK-838C